Pleasing Musical Program Given by Musicians' Club

First Concert of Series Delightfully Received—Next Recital Feb. 6.

BY WILFRED J. RILEY.

It has been some time since South Bend has had the privilege of listening to such an interesting and varied program as that presented, so artistically, by Josephine Decker, contralto; Mrs. Marjorie Berteling Galloway, pianist; Mrs. Julia M. Rode, soprano; Miss Wida Shonts, violinist; Edna Reed Cover, accompanist, and Maude Weber, accompanist, at the first concert of the Musicians' club series, given in the Rotary room of the Oliver hotel, last night.

It is to be hoped that if the remaining nights are to be such treats, the Musicians' club will not limit the series to but three recitals.

Miss Decker opened her program with two typical Brahms' songs, "Sappho Ode" and "My Love It Is Green." These were genuine triumphs for Miss Decker and were sung with true artistry and understanding. Of her other numbers, much could be written about her presentation of Kramer's "The Faltering Dusk." It was a delightfully realistic bit of singing, done with a feeling which showed an insight into the theme "The Japanese Death Song," a weird thing that leaves little to the imagination, was done exceptionally well. Curran's "The Holiday," a light, capricious song with an irresistible appeal, was received with enthusiastic applause.

Interesting Piano Program.

Mrs. Galloway presented an unusually interesting piano program. Chopin's "Scherzo in B Flat Minor" was presented with almost perfect technique and a tone that rang with bell-like clarity. Mrs. Galloway's interpretation of Chopin's "Scherzo" was interesting and her modulations artistically done. The immortal "Minuet in G" by Beethoven, with its appealing melody and undeniably charming, showed beyond any possible doubt, the ability of Mrs. Galloway.

The group of three songs in French with which Mrs. Rode opened her program, were delightful gems of song which were well received. Mrs. Rode's undeniable personality together with a soprano voice of beauty and wide range, made her a singer of unusual appeal. Rachmaninoff's "In the Silence of the Night" was the song of the evening; in fact, it was one of the most beautiful things heard here in some time. "The Odalisque," by Carpentier, was an interesting and subtle piece of descriptive song writing, well handled by Mrs. Rode. Her fairer beauty, her seraglio, Hagenman's "Nature's Holiday" gave Mrs. Rode's voice wide range and revealed a voice of power and sweetness in the higher registers.

The three violin numbers offered by Miss Shonts showed her to be a musician with a true mastery of her instrument. Her technique, which is almost flawless, does much to make up for what is lacking in the way of deep feeling and true expression.

All of the soloists were fortunate in having as accompanists such genuine artists as Miss Cover and Miss Weber. It is seldom that one finds two accompanists who read with such feeling and interest.

The next concert of the Musicians' club series will be held at the Oliver hotel, Monday evening, Feb. 6.

Attractive Bill Is Presented to Orpheum Patrons

'Living on Air' Novelty Headlines Program—Opening Act Also a Feature.

"Chalk up another attractive program for the Orpheum theater for the first three days of this week. With a variety of entertainment that is well balanced the local vaudeville house is maintaining its reputation for putting over high class bills.

The headline attraction is a novelty offering entitled "Living on Air." This act gives one an idea of the manner in which people may come to live within the next century. In airships. Howard Anderson and Helen Graves have a novel setting for their act in that is above the clouds. Still, with nary a neighbor to annoy them, their domestic life has its ups and downs, and the act abounds in humorous situations.

Opening Act a Feature.

What is perhaps the best opening attraction that has appeared at the Orpheum this year is the act by Austin and Cole, the latter an unusually pretty girl, who besides being endowed with good looks is an excellent harpist. Her aria from Lucia was exceedingly well done, and when Hayes and Montgomery operate to the popular music she is equally pleasing. It is the first appearance of this young lady in South Bend and she will be welcomed by scores of newly made friends whenever the management decides to book her for a return engagement. Her partner too is clever with his flute and saxophone solos, also with his cartoons of Sid Smith's Andy and Min.

Walton and Brant, remembered pleasantly by South Bend theatergoers, again present their humorous skit entitled, "Huh." Their act is distinctively individual. Lester and Moore with their ludicrous makeups, comedy songs and dances score heavily with an act that is a riot.

Present "Salty" Skit.

Gilroy, Hayes and Montgomery present "Salty" skit with the setting on the good ship "Nancy Lee." The woman in the act has pleasing contralto voice, and the comedian is a natural one.

Amaranth Sisters and company close the bill with a novelty dance and acrobatic act in which the dancing couple perform some of the most unusual and new stunts are introduced in this act, all of them well worth seeing.

Pathe News and Topics of the Day take care of the moving picture fans. In general the bill is a corker, the kind that is fast winning friends for the Orpheum theater. R. H. M.

Comes Home Again To Entertain Orpheum Audience With Music

Beulah Cole came home Monday, bringing with her a harp, some memories of her life here and at Niles and some real music for the patrons of the opening day of the bill at the Orpheum.

Miss Cole is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Trittip, 234 E. Calvert st., with whom she lived as a small child.

For three years she was a resident of Niles, and has only recently embarked upon a theatrical career. As harpist, Miss Cole has more than usual talent and played her way into instant favor with those who attended the performances, not an easy task for an opening number.

When tragedy in the form of an auto accident took her from her home in Niles a little over a year ago, she turned to the talent which she had developed from early girlhood, and the reception accorded her in other cities as well as in this gives promise of wide fame in her chosen profession.

She combines a petite daintiness with real musical genius.

SHOULD DEPOSIT CARD

There seems to be much misunderstanding about the tickets which have been distributed by the Scholarship Club for the performance of "The Son of Wallenstein" which is being shown at the Oliver theater this week for the benefit of the club's fund. People who wish the scholarship fund of the club to benefit are unaware that it is absolutely necessary that they bring to the box office, when they purchase their ticket, the cards distributed by the club. Under no circumstances are tickets which are not so marked to be purchased, the Scholarship Fund gets nothing.

The money obtained for this fund will be used in giving deserving youths an education at Notre Dame university. During the course for the present season the club has held several social events of distinction from these parties, the fund has rapidly grown.

Those who have not received any of these Scholarship cards, may obtain them at the hotels or at various stores and news-stands about the city.
